Unsupervised models seem promising and may be worth exploring more of features

Training on more deep mutational scanning studies

Using residue contacts in a graph

Finding a better normalization strategy for the scores from different experiments